Subject: Funding Request for Project "Investigating the Impact of Land Use Pattern on Avian Diversity in Kolhapur District"

Respected Sir,

We are writing to seek financial support from Doodhganga Agro Producer Company Ltd, Kasaba Walve, for our upcoming research project.

Objective of our project are Identify the different land use patterns in the district, Determine the avian diversity in different land use areas, Analyse the relationships between land use pattern and avian diversity and Assess the impact of human activities on avian diversity etc.

This initiative aligns with Doodhganga Agro Producer Company Ltd commitment to innovation and sustainability in agriculture. We are requesting 10 Lakh INR to cover personnel, equipment, and analysis expenses. The project promises to deliver insights that will enhance the research is expected to provide valuable insights into the impact of land use pattern on avian diversity in Kolhapur district.

The findings can help in formulating conservation strategies and sustainable land use practices to protect avian species in the region. Your support will not only benefit our research but also contribute to Doodhganga Agro Producer Company's leadership in the agricultural sector. I look forward to discussing this proposal in more detail.

Title: Investigating the Impact of Land Use Pattern on Avian Diversity in Kolhapur District

1. Introduction:

Avian diversity plays a crucial role in maintaining the ecological balance of a region. Different land use patterns such as agriculture, forests, urbanization, and water bodies can significantly impact avian diversity. Kolhapur district in Maharashtra, India, is known for its rich biodiversity and is home to a wide variety of bird species. However, with rapid urbanization and changes in land use patterns, there is a need to study the impact of these changes on avian diversity in the region.

2. Objectives:

- a. Identify the different land use patterns in the district.
- b. Determine the avian diversity in different land use areas.
- c. Analyze the relationships between land use pattern and avian diversity.
- d. Assess the impact of human activities on avian diversity.

3. Methodology:

- a. Survey and Mapping: Conduct a detailed survey to identify different land use patterns in the district such as agriculture, forests, urban areas, and water bodies. Use Geographic Information System (GIS) mapping to create a land use map of the study area.
- b. Avian Diversity Assessment: Conduct bird surveys in different land use areas to determine the diversity and abundance of bird species. Use standardized survey methods such as point count surveys and line transect surveys.
- c. Data Analysis: Compare avian diversity indices such as species richness, abundance, and diversity across different land use patterns. Use statistical analysis to determine the correlation between land use pattern and avian diversity.
- d. Human Impact Assessment: Assess the impact of human activities such as deforestation, habitat destruction, and pollution on avian diversity. Interview local communities and stakeholders to gather information on human-wildlife conflicts.

4. Expected Outcomes:

The research is expected to provide valuable insights into the impact of land use pattern on avian diversity in Kolhapur district. The findings can help in formulating conservation strategies and sustainable land use practices to protect avian species in the region.

5. Timeline:

- a. Data collection: 24 months
- b. Data analysis: 5 months
- c. Report writing and presentation: 5 months

6. Ethical Considerations:

- a. Obtain necessary permits and permissions for conducting fieldwork and accessing private as well as government-owned lands.
- b. Ensure the ethical treatment of birds during surveys and minimize disturbance to their habitats.
- c. Maintain confidentiality and anonymity of participants during interviews and surveys.

7. Conclusion:

The proposed research will contribute to the existing knowledge on avian diversity and land use patterns in Kolhapur district. By understanding the impact of human activities on bird species, conservation efforts can be targeted towards preserving the rich biodiversity of the region.)
